

Ocean Strategy – London: Consultant

Ocean Strategy A Unique Advisor to Europe's Media Industry

We are a team of blue chip strategy consultants working exclusively for top tier media companies and private equity clients investing in media assets. During the last 10 years, we have worked with over 100 clients covering every aspect of this dynamic and vibrant sector.

Based in London, our highly international team works in the UK, as well as across Continental Europe. We have an entrepreneurial culture that thrives on close team work and requires energy, enthusiasm and a dedication to achieving real change for our clients.

The Opportunity

We are looking to grow our team at the Consultant level. This is a unique opportunity to join a highly successful firm at a key stage in its growth, offering unmatched professional and personal development.

As a Consultant, you will have a key role in helping the leaders of the media world solve their toughest problems, while building an outstanding sector expertise. You will also have the unparalleled opportunity to significantly contribute to our growth.

The Person

We are looking for high-calibre individuals, who want to join a dynamic strategy consulting firm focused on the media industry. You will have professional experience at a blue chip strategy firm, where you managed junior consultants and demonstrated clear leadership capabilities. Experience of the media industry is beneficial but not essential to the role.

Outstanding analytical skills and proven academic achievement (a First or a 2.1

from a leading UK university or international equivalent), combined with a tenacious approach to solving important business issues, are a must. You will have a high level of energy and enthusiasm, and a genuine passion for strategy consulting.
